

Drinking water project for Amedi inked in at $90 million

22 February 2011

Erbil - Kurdistan Ministry of Municipality and Tourism sealed Monday a contract for construction of drinking water project for Amedi area within Dohuk province.

A statement issued by the ministry said the minister, Samir Abdullah Mustafa, signed the contract priced at 90,000,000 U.S. Dollars with the Lebanese Ster Group and Homan Ederson companies.

With the project getting underway, the town of Amedi and the townships of Deraluk, Sarsing, Qadash, and Bamarne, as well as four surrounding villages will be provided 2,400 cubic meters of drinking water per hour on average.

The project is expected to get started soon and finished in 720 days-almost two years.

Amedi area, 70 km northeast of Dohuk, 467 km north Baghdad, encompasses five townships including Bamarne, Deraluk, Sarsing.
