

Saudi set to sign nuclear power deal

French nuclear reactor firm Areva is to sign a partnership agreement with Saudi-based Binladin Group in the nuclear and solar power industries, Reuters has reported. The kingdom wants to cut domestic oil consumption within the next several decades, as it diversifies its energy mix to include nuclear, Hashim Yamani, president of the King Abdullah City for Atomic and Renewables Energy, told reporters.